I took this photo of Jana in the fall of 2006. She was fourteen and part of a group of kids living on the east side of Odessa. I spent many hours with them. Jana's path to the streets was typical of many. She came from a broken family and left a single mother to live on the streets. In 2008, our associates at The Way Home located her father in St. Petersburg, Russia. He came to Odessa and took her home.
